

Watergate East Architect Feted

Luigi Moretti, the Italian architect who designed the huge Watergate project, was honored here last week with a reception celebrating the topping out of the first of the five buildings, Watergate East.

The concrete for the 13th floor was poured last Friday, the day 200 persons turned out for the reception in the Watergate exhibit hall. A flag-raising ceremony was held on the roof by representatives of the Magazine Bros. Construction Co. and Ediltelco, the Italian project managing agent.